5. Principles of Parental Involvement

GGCP's approach to parent and carer involvement is based on the following principles:

- Respect: Recognising and valuing the primary role that parents and carers play in their children's lives.
- Communication: Providing clear, transparent, and regular communication between GGCP and families.
- Inclusion: Ensuring that all parents and carers, regardless of background or circumstance, feel welcome and able to participate.
- Collaboration: Actively seeking parent and carer input in decision-making processes and program planning.

6. Communication with Parents and Carers

GGCP ensures effective communication with families by:

- Daily Communication: Staff will share daily updates on children's activities, meals, naps, and progress. This can be done verbally, through notes, or using secure digital communication platforms.
- Regular Newsletters: GGCP will issue regular newsletters to keep parents and carers informed of upcoming events, curriculum updates, and important announcements.
- Parent-Staff Meetings: Formal parent-staff meetings will be held twice a year to discuss each child's progress, set goals, and address any concerns.

7. Involvement in Children's Learning and Development

GGCP actively involves parents and carers in their child's learning and development by:

- Sharing Learning Goals: Staff will share information about each child's individual development plan (IDP) and learning goals, inviting feedback and collaboration.
- Home Learning Activities: GGCP will provide suggestions for home activities that complement learning in the setting, encouraging continuity between home and playgroup.
- Parent Workshops: GGCP will offer workshops on topics such as early literacy, numeracy, nutrition, and positive parenting to equip families with additional skills to support their child's development.

8. Participating in GGCP Events and Activities

GGCP encourages parents and carers to participate in events and activities:

- Special Events: Parents and carers will be invited to attend seasonal events, celebrations, and outings with their children.
- Volunteering Opportunities: GGCP offers opportunities for parents to volunteer in activities such as reading to children, helping with crafts, or assisting with field trips.

- Additional Support: GGCP will connect families with external resources or services, such as local health, education, or social services, as needed to support their child's well-being and development.
- Language Support: For families whose first language is not English, GGCP will make efforts to communicate in their preferred language or provide translated materials where possible.

11. Confidentiality and Data Protection

GGCP respects the confidentiality of all information shared by parents and carers:

- Data Protection: GGCP will handle all personal information in compliance with the Data Protection Act 2018 (GDPR), ensuring it is securely stored and only accessible to authorised staff.
